I do not wish to encourage a speculative movement in the stock, said William Rocker foller in his statement regarding St. Paul: and the Street believed that part of the interien implicitly even if more or less receptical about the choerful torecasts made of onds and other matters. But if Mr. Books. teller did not wish to encourage a speculative movement in the stock, that apparently did not deter operators supposed to be in touch with the "inside from making a speculative movement, nor did his cheerful assurances. present some interests from taking advantage of the rise in the price to let out some stock With none of these was it supposed that Mr. Rocketeller had anything to rio. The stock showed no parcould commation and the supply affoat in the Street appeared to be increasing. Naturally the bears who laid fared so badly in the recent squeeze did not care to sell this particular security short again, and the opinion entertuned in most places was that on account of recent occurrences the stock was likely to sink in speculative favor

The approuncement that a contract had been signed between Pennsylvania interests. and the Western Union Telegraph whereby the latter would continue to operate over the lines of the Pennsylvania system to the west of Pittsburg, although interesting two companies, greatly disturbed a few years ago when the Pennsylvania Railroad forcibly ejected the Western Union from the lines east of Pittsburg, had again become friendly had no influence as a market factor. The possibility of a settlement of differences between Pennsylvania and the Gould interests would have sent the market bounding upward. but with the passage of years the matter and even those directly concerned in the affair

No stronger st tement of the effects of political hostility to the railroads has anywhere been made than that attributed to President Ripley of the Atchison, who has been represented in press despatches as any-ing that money for railroad building could be obtained if the attitude of the public toward the roads were different, but that as it cas he would not advise his friends to invest their money in that way. The Atchison has made wonderful progress under Mr. Ripley's management, increasing its business enor mously as a result of the judicious expenditure of money for extensions, acquisitions and improvements, and it must be a serious condition indeed that induces the president of the road to assert publicly that he would more of their money for similar purposes. Mr. Ripley means what he says whenever he speaks. He has no interests but those of his road, and in all the years in which he has been prominent in the railroad world his name has never been connected in any way with operations in the stock market. He knows the West and is not likely to take fright at a shadow. What he has to say may well be made the subject of serious thought, but Wall Street fears that the politicians are at present in no mood to indulge in serious

Call money rates rose as high as 8 per cent. and it was said that after the close of the market as much as 10 per cent, was paid for this kind of accommodation. It was rumored that the commercial interests were meeting with unusual difficulty in obtaining their requirements, and according to rumor the inability of real estate interests to obtain accommodations threatened unsettlement of the market for this kind of property not only in this neighborhood but in other cities. Altogether the feeling in regard to the money situation was not cheerful, and about the best that was looked for was that the contraction in general business might bring the necessar;

In quarters notoriously bearish the pre diction was made that Union Pacific would sell under par within ninety days, but in view of the origin of this prophecy no one took the trouble to inquire what it was based on. At one time in the afternoon Union Pacific and Northern Pacific sold at the same price, several sales of each having been made simul-taneously at 12814, and as Union Pacific is a 10 per cent. stock, while the Northern Pacific pays only 7 per cent. the question arose whether the price of the former did not discount a reduction in its dividend to the same basis as the latter. The most reasonable answer to this was that in Union Pacific, as in St. Paul, some large holders who were tied up in other enterprises were forced to sell their most salable securities to protect what could be disposed of only at a very great sacrifice. The amount of those stocks thrown into the Street keeps the market for them

The condition of the crop, stated ; of 1904. The figures were considered poor cards indeed by bulls and they sold with a precipitation that was plainly visible to the naked eye. Everybody sold. Europe especially Liverpool, the South, Wall Street and room traders, all seemed to be trying to sell at once and in big blocks for a time. Then the selling suddenly ceased and prices steadied. But with good weather, liberal receipts and little speculation except among professionals, the market got no support except from covering of shorts and some liberal buying by spot interests and one or two commission houses. No attention was paid to the light Southwestern movement There was a general desire to buildate and await futher developments. The weather must largely decide what they will be. At the North the outside public keeps out, at the South it is kept out by law.

Bartlett, Frazier & Carrington sand October 1 ginning flaures are of value in the total only as evidencing an early or late crop, but from a comparative standpoint with the movement they are of interest in that allowing for the ninety-five counties not reporting it is indicased that the total ginning is about 80 per cent, of last year, while the total marketed or in sight is 75 per cent, of last year, as should it be granted that frost will affect this crop only to the same extent as last year we have a condition of 87.7, against 71.8, or a 4 point lower average on the same acreage, which would indicate a crop somewhat in excess of 12½ million bales. Compared with previous cotton history the price is high for this time of year, and with a discouraged condition of builish speculation in every direction and a scarcity of money, which is just as likely to make finen ing hard for the spinner as for the tarmer, we are inclined to wait for some new builish feature before advising purchases.

Buyers were Hubbard, Hutton, Mitchell, Schill and others, who sold the market early. Mr. Price is supposed to have sold and to have taken the bear side again. Big sellers when the bureau report was announced were Messrs. Weld, Gwathmey, Schill, Mitchell and houses with Southern and Liverpool connections.

Some crop estimates were 12,500,000 to have taken the bear side again. Big sellers when the bureau report was announced were Messrs. Weld, Gwathmey, Schill, Mitchell and houses with Southern and Liverpool connections.

Some crop estimates were 12,500,000 to 13,000,000 bales. Mr. Price said: "Assuming an average date of frost the crop is 13,533,010 bales; and a New Orleans correspondent to whom I telegraphed the figures wires me in reply as follows: If we have average frost your estimate is far below the mark. September has been like June, and we will have indian summer to follow.' The anticipation of bullish Government figures had induced the covering of a very substantial snort interest prior to the issuance of the report. After the break which followed the publication of the figures this covering movement continued, and the market to-night is, in my opinion, almost entirely without the support of a short interest. It is und-subtedly true that the South is pursuing a policy of holding its cotton with unprecedented againinity, thereby creating a congested situation. Spinners, on the other hand, are with the same unanimity refusing to buy cotton. This is not so much from any concerted effort on their part to depress prices, but because they already feel the diminished demand for their manufactured product and because they are becoming apprehensive as to whether the widely savertised contracts made by them for the delivery of goods during the year 1908 will be found commercially available if the market for goods shows any substantial decline."

Futures declined 27 to 29 points, recovered to 10 points of this and closed steady, with estimated sales of 400,000 bales.

The income account of the company shows earnings equal to 9.16 per cent. on the capital stock. Gross earnings were 1906. Operating expenses, on account of 1906. Operating expenses, on account of increases in wages and the prices of materials, according to Mr. Mellen, increased in a greater ratio, so that the net earnings were $17.751,000, about $10,000 less than in the preceding year. No Signs of Business Depression, Says retary of State Whalen.

ALBANY, Oct. 2.- "There are no signs of business depression in New York State," said Secretary of State Whalen to-day, "as my report for the quarter ended September 30 and just transmitted to Gov. Hughes shows at a glance, and the figures will prove the statement that there is an abundance of ready capital in this State. This is the zone of prosperity, and instead of there being a contraction in business there is an expansion, and on a large scale, too. "When you consider that during the three dullest months in the year-July, August and September-one hundred and fifty corporations have increased their capital stock nearly $38,000,000, it dissipates the impression that the business situation is serious. The records of my office prove the contrary. New York State, at least, is at the flood tide of business prosperity." Secretary Whalen's report shows that during July, August and September 1,397 new business concerns filed certificates of incorporation. This is an increase of 100 over the corresponding period last year. The report also shows that in the quarter just ended 3.714 owners of autos registered with the Secretary of State. This shows an increase of 618 over the corresponding period of 1808. In the first nine months of 1808, 9.904 owners registered in the same of 1906, 9,904 owners registered; in the same months this year 12,233 registered.

Store Does the Best It Can. Harry Keller of 746 Manhattan avenue. Anna Keller, his wife, and David Weinstein of 230 West Fiftieth street were held for trial in $500 bail each in the Jefferson Market Court yesterday charged with the larceny of jewelry of the total value of $9.50 from Lucio's jewelry store on the northwest corner of Thirty-fourth street and Broadway.

Keller is a former manager of the store; Weinstein was a clerk. It was alleged by David Goldberg, the treasurer of the store, that Keller did not turn over $4.50 which he got from the sale of a buckle on September 21. Weinstein was accused of from the sale of a ring.

In the examination as to the value of the articles employees of Lucio testified that the ring cost 30 cents and was sold for $5, while the buckle, which sold for $4.50, had a cost price of 60 cents. There was no fixed price upon articles in the store, they declared. They were sold for whatever they would fetch above cost price. The exception, they said, was in the case of rings costing 60 cents. They could not be sold for more than $20.

The offer is made in a circular sent them by T. J. Lewis, the cashier of the bank, on the authority, he says, of Orlando F. Thomas, the president. This is the way

Mr. Lewis explains this peculiar proposition: value to the persistent efforts of the officers to build up the business. The last sale I know of was made at 156, but even at or about that price the stock is inactive. These facts radical defect in the organization of the bank from a business standpoint.

I believe this defect is largely to be found in the disintegration of the stockholding NEW YORK STATE PROSPEROI S. shares of the bank's capital stock are scatbody. Review of the Iron Trade. CLEVELAND, Oct. 2.—The Iron Trade Review to-morrow will say:

Slowly and without any approach to a panicky feeling, the iron trade is adjusting itself for a comparatively dull period, and the fact that this rational preparation is proceeding leads to the hope that there will be no serious depression in business. Buying by some inetersts is undeniably light, and it is probable that orders placed by railroads will decrease and that diminished orders for iron and steel rails will be given after the new rail specifications are agreed upon by the joint committee which has been considering this for some time Conditions in this country are reflected in England, and there seems to be a world wid tendency toward decreasing activity in the fron and steel business. Export business, however, is showing indications of improvement. The pig iron market continues very quies, the sales being limited almost entirely
